With F.M.L.

We understand Milam County historical groups now can proceed with developing the old Milam County Jail as a history center for the Milam Bicentennial year.

116-116-116

Temple is wise in consolidating its various federal payrolls in a new $2.4 million federal building in downtown Temple. The building was dedicated Monday and named in honor of incumbent Cong. W. R. Poage.

116-116-116

The last building scheduled for demolition in the Cameron urban renewal extension area is coming down. It is a wood-frame barn once finished out in sheet metal, located behind and to the south of the present City Hall.

116-116-116

Plans are underway for calling meetings of two committees proposed by City Council and Cameron Chamber of Commerce to discuss a downtown Cameron Civic Center and arena, these apparently to be in the vacant two-block area east of City Hall.

116-116-116

Workmen have moved the Milam County assessor-collector's offices to the new Milam County Tax Building adjacent to the new Milam County Jail. This leaves vacant for the time the basement office area occupied for years by the tax assessor-collector and staff.

116-116-116

Waco's Civic Center January 12 will be site for the city's annual Chamber banquet at which Houston's Leon Jaworski, Baylor law alum, Watergate and Nuremburg prosecutor, will speak.

116-116-116

So it goes with Cen-Tex central city development and redevelopment. Though smaller than either Waco or Temple, the historic town of Cameron is fast laying out the architecture for a downtown equally as durable and modern.

Fire Destroys Catholic Church On West Batte

Fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the Blessed Sacrament Catholic Church Saturday, and firemen spent about five hours containing the blaze and another fire that started from blowing cinders.

The fire broke out about 5:35 p.m. in the church which was located at 1400 West Batte. Fire fighters and witnesses early on the scene said the fire seemed to have started in the middle of the church, an old frame building.

Some cinders blown from the church started another fire in some grass and a plie of lumber about a quarter of a mile away from the original blaze. Firemen worked on the two fires until about 10:30 Saturday night.

Rev. Jimmy Greenwell, pastor of the church, said no one was in the building when it burned. Firemen managed to save the parsonage located in back of the church.

Fire Marshal Ed Bigbee said there was no way of telling how the fire started. He said the frame building dated from 1927-28 and the old wiring could have started the fire. Bigbee said a service was planned to be held that night and the fire could have started from a heater.

Firemen were also called to a grass fire on the Brewer farm Sunday about 6 p.m. The farm is located on the old Maysfield Road.

Quarantine Delayed In State

The U. S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) announced Friday that it is delaying the effective date of its federal brucellosis quarantine on Texas from Jan. 5 until Jan. 9.

According to officials of USDA's Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), the quarantine is being postponed because of temporary 10-day restraining order issued Dec. 30 by Judge J. T. Boyd of the state's 64th Judicial District Court in Castro County.

The temporary restraining order requires the Texas Animal Health Commission to bring the Texas brucellosis program into compliance with the cooperative state-federal brucellosis program.

Humble Files For 20th District Judge's Post

Cameron attorney Don Humble has announced that he has filed for the office of District Judge in the May primary. Present District Judge W. C. Wallace announced he will not seek re-election to the office.

Humble has been practicing law in Milam County since 1950, and served as county judge from 1959 to 1966. He also served as chairman of the County School Board and as a member of the board of trustees of the Cameron ISD.

He has been active in civic and church affairs since coming to Cameron in 1950, serving on the board of most of the civic groups in Cameron. He received the McCullin Civic Award in 1961 for outstanding civic contributions.

Humble has been active in the activities of the State Bar of Texas, having served on the Grievance Committee for the 20th Judicial District and presently serves on the committee on Admissions for this district.

Humble, 48, is a Fellow of the Texas Bar Foundation and served in the Navy during World War II.

County Records First Fatality Of New Year

Milam County recorded its first traffic fatality of the new year Monday around 11 p.m. when a Rockdale man was killed at the intersection of Farm Roads 3061 and 1486 between San Gabriel and Rockdale.

Highway Patrolman Milton Wright, who investigated the accident, identified the man as Johnny P. Jones, 39, of Rt. 3, Rockdale. He was pronounced dead on arrival at a Rockdale hospital.

According to Wright, Jones apparently lost control of his car and it overturned. He was alone in the car at the time of the mishap.

In another accident, a Belton man remained in satisfactory condition Sunday night in the Temple Veterans Administration Center Hospital after surgery for injuries he received Sunday morning in a motorcycle accident two miles north of Milano.

A Milam County Sheriff's office spokesman said 22-year-old Everett Eugene Dawkins of Rt. 1, Belton apparently was riding his motorcycle along a Santa Fe Railway Co. right of way next to the railroad tracks when an Amtrak passenger train passed by. The resulting wind apparently blew the motorcycle off balance, knocking Dawkins off. He was not struck by the train itself, however.

He was rushed to St. Edward Hospital in Cameron and later was transferred to the Temple VA Center by a Marek-Burns-Laywell Funeral Home ambulance.

Political Races Shaping Up

RAFTERS make a striking pattern as the old hay barn around the corner from City Hall comes down this week. Demolition of the building is part of the city's urban renewal extension project and is one of the two buildings left to come down in the area.

Six Candidates Draw Opponents In May Primary

The political pot in Milam County is beginning to boil with six races already developing as candidates and incumbents file for the May 1 primary.

Filing deadline is February 2 at 6 p.m.

Probably drawing the widest interest so far is the contest shaping up between incumbent Sheriff Carl Black, 77, and first-time candidate Leroy Broadus, 41, former Texas highway patrolman for 12 years.

Two commissioners will be up for election and both have drawn opponents. Herman Dorner Jr. has filed for commissioner of Precinct 1 and will run against incumbent Adolph Gresak, who has filed for re-election.

The other commissioner's race is developing between incumbent Gerald (Bigun) Vinton, filing for re-election for Precinct 3, and R. C. (Red) Richards of Rockdale, businessman and a member of the Rockdale city council.

In constable elections, George T. Vickers and Rex. B. Jones have both filed for Precinct 2 while Warren E. McCall and John Zajicek are running for constable of Precinct 6. For constable of Precinct 8, Wayne Brinkley and incumbent P. L. Paris have filed.

Other filings include H. T. (Tommy) Chamberlain for constable of Precinct 1; H. N. (Spud) Caywood, constable, Precinct 4; and Valter White, county tax assessor-collector.

Cameron To Host Jr. Livestock Show

By Kenneth Waites
Asst. Co. Exten. Agent

Saturday, January 10 is the big day for the Milam County Junior Livestock Show and we are looking for a good show and a big turnout.

The show will be held at the Cotton Compress warehouse in Cameron, with approximately 160 entries from the 4-H clubs and FFA chapters over the county entered.

All entries must be in place by 9 a.m. and judging will begin at 9:30 a.m.

A crossbred gilt and a crossbred heifer class have been added for thse interested. If there are not enough entries to make a class, they will be placed in a breed class which they most nearly fit.

At the 1975 show, the annual hog auction raised $1,505 for the youth. There will be a sale again this year starting at 1:30 p.m.

The 1975 buyers were Citizens National Bank, Cameron; Milam County Farm Bureau; Cameron Livestock Auction; Cameron-Colonial Nursing Home; Duncum Implement Inc., Cameron; Zink's Food Market, Cameron; and the 3C Cobb Farms, Cameron.

Individuals and businesses are welcome to attend the hog auction and bid on the hog.

A fund drive is in progress to raise money for premiums and building expenses. Tickets on butcher calf are being sold by the youth.

We would like to extend thanks to Milam Grain and Cameron Livestock Auction for the donation of the butcher calf to be drawn for on the day of the show. Also, thanks to Bubba Wied, who donated a shotgun to be given to the 4-H or FFA member who sells the most tickets on the butcher calf. We appreciate all those who have bought tickets for the calf and if you have not yet, we hope you will do so, as the money collected will go to the exhibition for prize money.

The 4-H clubs will have a concession stand at the show for refreshments and we hope all of you will come out and have a big time with us.

Bicentennial Slide Show Set Here Friday

"The Dawn of Freedom," a statewide slide show for this Bicentennial Year, will be shown at Methodist Fellowship Hall on Friday, January 9 at 7:30 p.m.

Larry Morrow, Cameron bicentennial chairman, said the slide presentation shows the events that led up to the Declaration of Independence and the war that was fought to uphold it.

The program is a three-screen, six projector multi-media slide show. It is not a documentary, but a drama, a real life story of the real men and the actual events that won for America its freedom.

There will be no charge and all Cameron area residents are invited to attend.

Cong. W. R. (Bob) Poage will address high school students Friday morning at 10 a.m. following presentation of the slide show to students at the fellowship hall.

County Tax Office, Sheriff Move To New Quarters

The Milam County tax office has been moved into its new building, with all records and personnel except for two clerks who will handle voter registration. And Sheriff Carl Black has moved his home from the old county jail to his house on North Travis St.

County Judge O. B. Harden said permission from the Justice Department to move the place of voter registration had not been received, so voters should register at the old tax office.

Harden said the new tax office building is complete except for a few minor things still to be done.

It is planned that the county Extension office will be moved into the old tax office space unless some more urgent use is developed. Judge Harden said the present Extension office in the Bigbee building still has some months left on its lease, so there will be no immediate move.

With the vacating of the old county jail by the sheriff, the Milam County Historical Association is free to examine the building to see if it is suitable for a county museum.

Sheriff Black's office was moved into the new county jail last February.

City Council Approves Wastewater Treatment

The Cameron city council in a short meeting Tuesday evening approved engineer's plans for wastewater treatment which will bring the city within compliance with requirements of the Texas Water Quality Board.

The plan was presented by Cason Associates, and involves treatment of sludge from the water settlement basin and backwash from water filters. The city has until 1977 to implement the plan; however, the board must be notified of the plan within 30 days.

In other business, council heard the second reading of a $3,000 tax exemption ordinance for the elderly and tabled the second reading of a street assessment ordinance in order to get new bids on paving.

Mayor Gene Blake reported that applications are being made for state and federal funds for the airpark runway improvements. He said the State Aeronautics Commission will do the engineering work and apply for the funds. One of the requirements is for the city to acquire additional air space at each end of the runway.

A vote of public thanks was approved for Joe Humplik, of the Farm and Ranch Store, for his service in spraying Christmas trees to make them flame-retardant during the holidays.

Fire Chief Felix Matula reported a need for replacement fire brooms for grass fires, and agreed to submit a report of rural fires to the Commissioners Court. He also said work was needed on the fire plug at Karnes and Batte as it was no good for fighting fires.

Council authorized payment for the firemen's retirement fund which amounts to about $150 a year.

Hubert Knight again appeared before the council and was told he can appeal the council's decision not to rezone a lot on Eighth St. where Knight wants to move his business.

MOD Mothers March To Start Thursday

The Mothers march for the annual March of Dimes drive will be held in Cameron starting Thursday, January 8 and running through January 31.

Volunteers, captains, and other workers will meet Monday, January 12 at 6 p.m. in the First National Bank conference room to get materials for the drive and become familiar with the territory to be covered.

Marie Crouch is Mothers March chairman and Regina Hairston is co-chairman for the drive. The longer period of time will allow block captains and other volunteers plenty of time to contact each home to distribute educational material and solicit funds for the worthwile cause.

The 1975 Mothers March brought in $400 through the March and $362 from the business drive.

The business drive this year will start January 19 and run through January 31.

The annual Walk-A-Thon will be held in the spring with Virginia Schuhsler taking charge as chairman.

Films and speakers are available, upon request, for use by civic organizations and churches in Milam County.

"The March of Dimes is not connected with the United fund in any way," Mrs. Meissner said, "and this announcement is being made since in the past there has been some misunderstanding concerning this matter."

"We should like to take this opportunity to thank the people of Cameron for their wonderful support and interest in the work the National Foundation is doing in the fight against birth defects," she added.

TSTI, Baylor Collaborate...

We note Middle Eastern oil countries are interested in a pilot training program which involves joint efforts of Texas State Technical Institute and Baylor University.

Baylor will offer a baccalaureate degree program and TSTI will offer an associate degree program in aviation maintenance and pilot training. The Baylor program will be in general education and management science leading to a bachelor of science degree in aviation.

Countries interested thus far are Iran, Egypt, Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Syria, Kuwait, and Sudan.

A firm known as AVA Flight Academy, according to The Waco Tribune-Herald, has developed the program which offers advanced level pilot training to U. S. and foreign citizens.

This will be a new application of combining the skills and facilities of higher education and technology. And it is a way of getting some exchange for the higher oil prices hitting this country.

It also confirms a policy of U. S. government which figures that if we don't train pilots, including those from Arabic nations, Russia will. A three-hour NBC special on foreign policy Monday night touched on this touchy problem. We, of course, straddle the explosive Middle East confrontation of the Arab League and Israel.

Other nations will take advantage of the program, we are confident, and it shows both Baylor and TSTI are monitoring the modern needs of society and meeting those needs.

Cowboys Keep "D" Big...

Dallas goes to Miami in a couple of weeks to meet Pittsburgh in Super Bowl X.

And one of the players Pittsburgh took to Super Bowl IX is a guy they wish was not going with the Dallas Cowboys to Super Bowl X.

He is back Preston Pearson who left the Steelers last year to join Dallas, one of only two Cowboys not drafted. Pearson and quarterback Roger Staubach took the Dallas offense through the Steeler shambles left by the Dallas defense. Pearson caught three touchdown passes, Staubach threw four.

Dallas is the first "wildcard" team to reach the Super Bowl, where the Cowboys have been twice before, winning one, losing one.

This one has to be the most satisfying to Coach Tom Landry, who works harder than anybody in the Cowboys operation.

Somebody said Jimmy the Greek gives the Steelers a 7-point edge. The Cowboys were 6-point underdogs in the game with Los Angeles, who lost 37-7. In preseason exhibition, LA won 35-7.

That's how far Landry has brought the Cowboys and how well Pearson, Staubach, and the rest of Dallas' wildcards played last Sunday.

The Cowboys are keeping the "big D" in front of a, double 1, a, s.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

FEDERAL AGENCIES HIT BY SELF-DESTRUCT ACT

Rep. Abner J. Mikva (Ill.) ". . .I am pleased to announce that. . .Senator Jospeh Biden (Del.) is introducing a companion measure to H. R. 9125, the Regulatory Agency Self-Destruct Act, which I introduced to the House of Representatives on July 31, 1975. Although Senator Biden's bill differs in some respects from the measure I introduced, both bills share the common goal of reforming "the feudal baron of permanent government" --the regulatory bureaucracy. . .

"One of our most flagrant cases of regulation gone sour is the distintegration of this country's railroads. It is difficult to imagine how the present state of affairs could be worse had there been no regulation of the industry. And yet it is interesting to note that while one railroad after another goes bankrupt, the Interstate Commerce Commission continues to prosper . . .

"Each year the Commission adds more staff and receives more funds. Since 1974, the budget authority for the ICC has increased by nearly 25 percent. Equally distressing is the attempt of the CAB to try to explain to the public how consumers are benefited by denying the airlines the right to lower their ticket prices--even while they are urged to complete on the frills of air transportaion--like movies, liquor, and pianos. . .

"Under the provisions of the bill, each Federal regulatory agency would self-destruct on July 4, 1976, the date of the 200th anniversary of this Nation's founding. . .

"If, however, the President and the Congress determines that July 4, 1976 is too soon for a determination of the appropriate end of some or all such agencies, the self-destruct mechanism would be triggered in after 7 years. Those agencies which have been in existance for less than 25 years would self-destruct after 15 years. And any new regulatory agency established by Congress would also be subject to self-destruct features. . .

"It is time for Congress to cease abdicating its responsibilities to some mindless, faceless bureaucracy and to reassert its control over the Federal Government. . ."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

Every presidental candidate advocates reforming the Federal agencies, but the job won't get done until legislation is passed making the task mandatory. Every Agency should have to justify it's existence, periodically.

COMING TO A BOIL

OLD PHILOSOPHER

Editor's Note: The Old Philosopher still hasn't recovered sufficiently from surgery to be able to write a column this week; consequently, he had a friend rummage through his elaborate filing system and pick out a column that ran years ago just to see if it would still stand up. Here it is. What do you think?

Dear Editor:

Why don't you and me go into the public opinion poll business?

I got this idea last night while I was looking over a copy of the Houston Post which my dog dragged into the yard yesterday afternoon and left there un-torn, didn't like the taste of it I guess, although I don't know why, you ought to see some of the bones he chews on.

At any rate, over on an inside page there was the result of the latest Gallup Poll. After surveying people clear across the nation, the Poll discovered that the "most urgent problem facing the average man and his family today is money." Of all faming problems, it found, shadows all other worries of the American people today.

This is the reason you and me ought to start our own public opinion poll. I could have discovered the same results without interviewing a single person or using even a postage stamp, and if you can sell the poll to other newspapers, everything we take in will be net profit, and I can sure use my part to help meet the high cost of living. You bought any tractor parts lately? Been to the hospital? Replaced a picture tube? Fed a growing boy? Bought any dog food?

There are some things a man just knowns automatically, and one of them is that regardless of how much he earns, his family is always one jump ahead in needing a little more. Every time he gets into a new income bracket, he discoveres his family has been there for months already.

Another thing about this poll we ought to start is that we could use it over and over. Not only is it true that the average consumer is in an economic squeeze today, he was in one yesterday, last year, ten years ago, and most likely will be in one ten years from now. By the time you own one car, your family needs two, and when you swing that, color television comes in and the family next door has a speedboat.

Let's get this poll going. My tractor is missing out and my TV set is flickering.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

New Legislation Taking Effect

Significant new legislation took effect in Texas January 1.

The acts were passed by the legislature during 1975 with effective dates postponed until start of the new year.

Among the new laws are the following:

—Authority for the Department of Public Safety to cancel licenses following a hearing of automobile inspection stations which are caught requiring unnecessary repairs or equipment.

—Power for the Department of Public Welfare to regulate homes, nursery schools, private kindergartens and child placing agencies for teenagers with special problems. The regulations already have met with controversy from kindergarten operators.

—A requirement that certificates of titles be provided for boats over 14 feet long and for motors of more than 12 horsepower. Purchasers must send necessary forms and a manufacturer's statement of origin to the State Parks and Wildlife Department before new titles will be issued on payment of a $2 fee.

—Placement of new strip mining regulations (coal, lignite and uranium) in hands of the Texas Railroad Commission for enforcement through permits and restoration requirements.

—Provision for Texans to donate parts of their bodies as "anatomical gifts" for transplant purposes by signing a special statement on their drivers' licenses.

Tag System Changed

Texas car owners are getting new auto registration notices through the mail this week.

Instead of sporting new metal license plates, vehicles will be tagged with small strips of reflective material. Bicentennial red, white and blue stickers are to be fixed to the upper left-hand corner of the five-year plates issued a year ago.

For the first time since World War II, Texans will use old license plates. Plans call for annual reissue of the same plate numbers for the foreseeable future for periods of at least five years at a time.

Beginning in 1978, Texas will go to a year-around registration system. The validation sticker will indicate the month of issue for each car. Registration will occur during every month of the year, similar to present procedures for vehicle safety inspection. The month-of-issue will remain the same for the life of the vehicle.

Insurance Growth

Seventeen new insurance companies organized in Texas during the last year, and 54 more firms from other states were granted authority to do business here.

State Board of Insurance new annual report shows 1,724 companies are now under the agency's regulation. There are more than 97,000 licensed insurance agents.

AG Opinions

A sheriff is not entitled to a fee for an unsuccessful attempt to serve process, Atty. Gen. John Hill determined in a recent opinion.

The same opinion concluded county or district clerks may not assess fees for service as costs prior to the successful performance of service. A clerk may require security for such fees or an affidavit of inability to pay costs prior to issuing any process.

In another opinion, Hill said state agencies may enter into contracts for non-assessable insurance policies with mutual insurance companies without violating the constitution.

New Appointments

Comptroller Bob Bullock named Randall B. Wood to succeed the late Ervin B. Osborn as his chief clerk and deputy comptroller for tax administration.

Be prepared for pollution.

Did you know that Scouting has one of the most effective antipollution programs going? That during just one Saturday last year, more than 2,000,000 Scouts from coast to coast cleaned up more than a million tons of litter?

Did you know that Scouting also has a drug prevention program all its own that helps kids turn away from drugs and discover a "natural" high? That new Scouting merit badges include Environmental Science, Computers, Atomic Energy, Space Exploration, and Citizenship in the World?

Did you know that when we asked boys what they thought was most fun about Scouting, they said hiking and camping outdoors? But when we asked them what they thought was most important about Scouting, they said "...to help you be prepared for life."

Did you know that for every boy in Scouting there's another boy who'd like to be, but can't. And that the reason most of them can't is because no adult in the neighborhood thinks Scouting's worth the time?

If you don't think Scouting's worth your time, you don't know enough about Scouting.

Even if you can spare just one hour a week, you can get involved in Scouting. Find out more. Write: Be Prepared, BSA, North Brunswick, New Jersey 08902.

Unbutton Your Overcoat! January Thaw Due-Maybe

The snows may be flying, but any day now you may get a peek at spring.

It's still the dead of winter, and it's also the time for the January thaw, the yearly crack in the icebox door that gives a glance at April, the National Geographic Society says.

A meterology professor who has kept his eye on the January thaw for years says: "It's not folklore--it ap--pears about two winters out of three."

This year? "It's worth a $3 bet that it will show up," he says, "but no more."

Snew, Thew, Then Friz

The January thaw has been visiting the minds of Americans every winter for at least since the days Washington's frostbitten soldiers hoped for a little warming and melting at Valley Forge.

And it was probably that Philander Jonson, longtime Washington, D. C. newspaper man, was describing when he wrote:

"Oh what a blamed uncertain thing This pesky wather is! It blew and new and then it thew, And now, by jing, it's friz."

Legend--if not folklore--says that the "thew" comes about mid-January in the Midwest, a little earlier farther west, and between the 18th and 23rd in the eastern states.

For a couple of sunny days the temperature might jump as much as 30 degrees, melting snow somewhat and tricking a few buds into thinking it's spring. Then "it's friz" and back to winter.

But while the balmy January thaw is in town, drivers roll down their car windows, slot-dirty snow slides down storm sewers, kids ignore their mothers and shed winter coats, and countless people develop their first spring cold of the year.

Down on the far, stretches of sodden greenery surface through the snow, bees may buzz out of their hives, birds begin premature nest building, and skating ponds get mushy.

Adages and Oens

Once upon a time farmers went around saying "January thaw, the Lord have mercy!" or "A January spring is worth nothing."

Meteorologically, a January thaw is a big lazy high pressure system drifting across the county between storms. The way weathermen at the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration see it, this January will look like this:

There will be above averate temperatures in the eastern third of the nation, except for northern Maine, but they will be near normal or below in the Midwest and Great Lakes regions, It will be warmer than average along a path covering parts of Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Nevada, and western Arizona. Northern California will be below average.

True to tradition, the Old Farmer's Almanac insists that the weather will be "mild through January" and then cold again.

Reportedly, there was no conclusive hint of a January thaw--one way or another--indicated by the black and brown bands around this fall's crop of wooly bear caterpillars.

Nursery Industry Booming

The nursery grower industry is booming across Texas. Nursery sales in Texas are estimated at more than $55 million for 1973 by Dr. H. B. Sorensen, an agricultural economist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station.

The research economist has studied the types of businesses, sales volumes and production of nursery industries in Texas.

Sorensen identifies three groups in the nursery industry--nursery growers, nursery dealers, and florists.

"Nursery growers produce over 50 percent of the plants they sell and sell over 60 percent of all plants wholesale.

"Most growers sell to other nurseries, garden centers and landscape architecture firms," says the economist.

Forty-five percent of all sales are made within a radius of 50 miles. Thirty-one percent are made over a 200 mile radius.

"Of the 455 nursery growers listed in the 1972 Texas Floral and Nursery Directory, 73 percent are individual proprietors. Partnership and corporation forms of operation are about equally prevalent after individual proprietors," notes Sorensen.

According to the report, the average individual proprietor does about $81,000 worth of business per year while the average corporation's yearly business volume is about $470,000.

In addition to the nursery growers, there are also almost 5,000 licenses nursery dealers in Texas.

Employment Commission Finds Jobs For Texans

While paying our record-breaking amounts of unemployment insurance benefits in the past fiscal year, the Texas Employment Commission still managed to find jobs for more than 400,000 unemployed Texans.

The jobless benefits paid from the Texas Unemployment Compensation Fund in the year ending last August 31 amounted to $167,347,-622, the Commission said in its recent annual report.

Not included in that total was $65,755,538 in federally-funded unemployment benefits paid because of prolonged unemployment resulting from adverse economic conditions.

Commission employees made 413,583 job placements during the year, at the same time handling the heaviest unemployment claim load in the history of the agency and performing the other regular responsibilities of the agency.

Although job placements declined slightly during the year because of employment cutbacks, the TEC emphasis on increased services to Texas employers and on the placement of applicants in productive employment remained evident. The agency made 1,334,390 referrals to jobs. Veterans were hired for 92,136 of these job openings.

At the end of the fiscal year, more Texas employers were covered by the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act than ever before--207,-631 up 5,783 from the previous fiscal year. These employers paid $15.6 billion in taxable wages to workers in the year ending June 30, 1975.

In spite of national economic problems, the Texas labor force registered a 3.2 percent gain from August 1974, reaching an estimated 5,367,900 workers.

Federal Benefits Ending

Federal Supplemental Benefits (FSB), created by Congress to assist unemployment benefit claimants who have exhausted their regular benefits, came to an end in Texas January 3, 1976.

"This is not to be confused with the Texas Employment Commission's regular unemployment benefits program, which remains unchanged," says Henry Rothell, administrator of the Commission.

Under Federal statute, the FSB program became inoperative after January 3, 1976 in any state whose rate of insured unemployment is less than 5 percent. The insured unemployment rate in Texas for November was 1.7 percent.

Claimants who qualified for Federal Supplemental Benefits on or before January 3, 1976, can continue to draw these benefits on claims dated through April 10, 1976.

Those claimants who qualified for Federal Supplemental Benefits on or before January 3 and who have not drawn all of their benefits, will be notified in January of the April 10 deadline of claims.

No Federal Supplemental Benefits will be paid in Texas for claims dated after April 10- 1976.

Paprika Was Hot Stuff In New World Long Before It Spiced Any Goulash

Hungarians hold food in a reverence that is almost religious, but now they're faced with a cardinal sin--a shortage of paprika.

A dwindling farm labor force threatens production cuts in the seasoning that spices most Hungarian dishes. Things have gotten so bad the Hungarians have been forced to import some of their paprika from Spain.

Hungary's love affair with paprika began in the 16th century when the spice was introduced by invading Turks, the National Geographic Society says. The people took the culinary intruder to their hearts and developed a whole series of national dishes, "paprikashes," around its flavor.

Paprika and Wine

"Lard, onions, paprika, and flour provide the base for most Hungarian dishes," observed a recent visitor. "In peasant homes I was often served brandy with breakfast and a lunch of bread, bacon fat, paprika, and wine. My dinner was always weighed heavy with calories, cholesterol, and my own feelings of guilt."

Hungary's addiction to paprika can't really be blamed on the Turks. The plant, a member of the large family of pod peppers called "capsicums," is a New World native.

Turkey simply had been one of many places that received capsicum plant seeds soon after their discovery in Americas.

Yet paprika as it developed in Europe took on an entirely different flavoring. Columbus and his men had discovered the natives fiery hot pods. In Europe, under different soils, climates, and cross breeding, the capsicums took on new characteristics.

In Hungary they became much milder than their American cousins, but they still retained a decided nip.

Grown in California

Paprika long has been popular in the United States, which last year imported more than 26 million pounds. Spain, Morocco, Mexico, and Bulgaria, were the principal suppliers. Both sweet and mildly pungent varieties are grown in California.

"Paprika is in constant demand in the United States," says a spokesman for McCormick and Company, a major spice and extract manufacturer. "It easily makes the top five on our popularity list."

Unlike many other spices, paprika always refers to a ground product. It is first processed into powder where it is grown, then shipped to users.

In most cases, other spices are shipped in their whole form then processed in the United States, according to the specifications of the spice company that mills them.

Besides giving pleasing flavor and appetizing color to foods, paprika adds nutritional value. Professor Albert von Szent-Gyorgyi, of the University of Szeged, Hungary, won the 1937 Nobel prize in medicine for discovering that paprika was rich in vitamin C.

QUICK COFFEE RING

- 2 Tbsp. peanut butter
- 2 Tbsp. jelly or jam
- 1 Tbsp. milk
- 1 pkg. refrigerated unbaked raisin cinnamon rolls

Combine peanut butter, jelly and milk. Separate rolls and spread one side of each roll generously with peanut butter mixture. On a lightly greased cookie sheet slightly overlap rolls, spread side up, to form a circle. Press rolls together lightly where they overlap. Bake in a preheated 375 degree oven for about 20 minutes. Frost with icing that is included in package. Serve hot.

TASTY, EASY-TO-PREPARE DESSERT--Today's busy homemaker will appreciate the ease with which she can create this attractive Quick Coffee Ring. Peanut butter and jelly are added to refrigerated, unbaked raisin cinnamon rolls for a distinctive homemade dessert. Texas Department of Agriculture home economists suggest storing extra packages of rolls in the freezer to have on hand when short-notice company comes.

Swiss Misses Still Can Not Vote

By Scott Thornton

APPENZELL, Switzerland Reuter--Switzerland's unique outdoor Parliaments, are hailed as one of the last strongholds of local democracy, yet women are prohibited from voting in them.

For the last 500 years, and despite International Women's Year, men in the five districts known as Landesgemeinde have barred women from voting.

It was not until 1971 that women won the right to vote in the federal elections.

The men have recently confirmed that women may not take part in the colorful events which take place each year beneath the spreading lime tree in the main square of this quaint market town set in some of Switzerland's most glorious alpine scenery.

The annual Parliaments are one of the country's oldest institutions, though they are now confined to only three of 22 cantons (semi-autonomous states.)

Critics say the tradition, which dates back to the early 15th century, lost its relevance long ago and should be scrapped.

Wearing Mediaeval smocks and cocked hats, and with the local sand in full regalia, local dignitaries occupy the wooden stage in front of some 2,000 men who are asked to raise their hands in support of or opposition to various local government proposals.

Earlier this month, the government of the half-canton "Appenzell Outher Rhodes" rejected the latest plea for women's suffrage.

It was a decision which seemed to have the backing of a great majority of the males in Appenzel--a town best-known to the outside world for its fine cheeses and skill of its yodellers.

The business, which is usually disposed of in a couple of hours here, may include plans for a new school, swimming pool, or traffic by-laws.

The women's liberation backlash against this male domination is not powerful.

The decision of "Outer Rhodes" to recommend rejection of a petition signed by 102 townspeople--mainly women--for universal suffrage caused little controversy earlier this month.

"It seems that the local authorities would prefer to see the Landesgemeinde in its grave rather than allow women on to their sacred square," one disgruntled hotel waitress said. "But it's hard to ship up a protest among the women here."

If women did take part, this is probably what would happen anyway because the square around the lime tree can only accommodate a few thousand people and there would be no room for the women.

According to the town clerk, outsiders "must appreciate the historical background to our position."

"There is a great tradition in Swiss rural areas that the main decisions are taken by the men and this does not die easily," he asserts.

Mr. Breitenmooser says the men are normally content to accept recommendations put forward by their nine-man government and hold heated debates later, over glasses of local plum brandy in town cafes.

But the last word goes to one of the women.

"Even if we did get the vote in the Landesgemeinde, things would not change much," one elderly farmer's wife remarked. "Our husbands vote exactly as we tell them."

Chicken In A Pot: Festive, Easy

Nobody needs to be told that chicken is one of the better buys these days of high food prices. That makes Chicken en Cocotte a four-way choice for company fare: it's a delectable, attractive, easy-to-make main dish that's economical too. Plump, meaty roasting chicken and potatoes, carrots and onions are oven-braised, so the dish needs little looking-after while it cooks. And served with salad and bread, it makes a complete main course.

This is just one of the dozens of elegantly economical chicken dishes to be found in the newly published Good Housekeeping Cookbook. Budget-wise ways with meats and other important foods are also to be found in the new book's 816 pages, along with up-to-the-minute tips on buying, storing and freezing foods.

Chicken En Cocotte

- 1 4- to 5-pound roasting chicken
- 1 teaspoon paprika
- 1 10½-ounce can condensed cream-of-chicken soup
- 9 small potatoes
- 6 medium carrots, cut in 1-inch pieces
- 1 pound small white onions (about 12)
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- Chopped parsley for garnish

About 2 hours before serving:

Preheat oven to 375°F. Remove neck and giblets from chicken. Rinse and drain chicken well. Sprinkle chicken with paprika; fold wings under bird. Place chicken and giblets in 7-quart cook-and-serve Dutch oven or covered roasting pan; pour on undiluted chicken soup. Cover and bake 45 minutes.

Place remaining ingredients except parsley in liquid around chicken in Dutch oven; cover and bake about 1 hour longer or until chicken and vegetables are fork tender, basting vegetables occasionally with pan sauce. Remove cover and bake until chicken is light golden, about 15 minutes, basting occasionally.

Sprinkle chicken with parsley. Makes 5 or 6 servings.

Panel Trucks Glorified As 'Vanning' Fad Grows

Auto sales are rebounding from last year's slump, rescued in part by fuel-saving design changes.

But one of Detroit's hottest items, whose sales never faltered, has undergone few factory modifications and continues to deliver uninspired gas mileage.

Vans, those slab-sided panel trucks used as all-purpose vehicles by merchants and repairmen, are more popular than ever, the National Geographic Society points out.

When auto sales tumbled 17 percent a year ago, the sales of vans rose 1 percent--and they have kept climbing.

Wheeled "Butterflies"

Most are bought to serve as utility vehicles for tradesmen, but others are destined for more dramatic roles.

Like caterpillars transformed into butterflies, the box-shaped trucks become elaborately painted and equipped rolling homes for growing numbers of "vanners."

As did hot-rodding in its day, vanning began in California and has spread across the country.

Owners devote time, money, and ingenuity to outfitting the vans to reflect their personal taste. Anywhere from $5,000 to $12,000 may be lavished on gleaming paint for the exteriors and on carpeting, upholstery, and furnishings for the interiors of soundproofed, air-conditioned vans.

Side panels that formerly would have borne the names and telephone numbers of plumbers, television servicemen, or neighborhood grocers are decorated with traffic-stopping beach scenes, imaginary moonscapes, or surrealistic pinstriping.

A dozen coats of lacquer may protect the billboard sized murals. Some vanners give their vehicles extra glitter with costly metallic "diamond dust" paint jobs.

A special "sweet wheels conversion" adds expensive mag wheels, extra-wide-tread tires, and flared fenders.

Cut Glass and Velvet

Inside, up to three inches of fiberglass insulation on the sides and three inches of foam rubber on the floor assure quiet, easy riding.

The decor frequently includes thick shag rugs, sometimes covered with fake fur throwpieces. The carpeting may cover the walls and ceiling, or the walls may be tufted velvet with mirrored ceilings.

Furnishings run the gamut from cut glass chandeliers and ornately carved and turned woodwork to psychedelic lighting and trimmings of leather and brass. Available extras include such housekeeping items as a bed, closet, sink, and refrigerator or ice box.

Stereo seems to be required equipment, with quadraphonic sound optional, and shelves are stocked with rock tapes.

Some owners put three-dimensional bubble windows in their vans, but many prefer no windows at all. A few even convert their windshields to one-way glass so they can see and not be seen.

Then they christen their rolling homes with names like "Moby Van," "Good Time Machine," "Vantastic," or "Chiquita Vanana," and drive off to compare handiwork at campsite "Truck-Ins."

County Agent's Notes

Time To Select Shade Trees

By Bill McCutchen

This is a good time to select shade trees, ornamentals, fruit and pecan trees. Most nurseries still have a good selection and planting now will allow the root system time to get well settled before spring.

I wouldn't recommend pecan and fruit trees to everyone as they do require maintenance to be attractive and fruitful. If you do wish to plant a fruit or pecan tree do a little shipping and get good sound trees and good varieties.

In selecting pecan varieties pay a lot of attention to scab resistance as well as production. Some of the better varieties for Milam County would include Desirable, Choctaw, Sioux, Shawnee, Caddo, and Mohawk.

Peach and plum variety selection is also critical. Many varieties that are outstanding north and west of here do not perform well because they don't get enough cold here to break dormancy.

Recommended peach varieties include June Gold, Sentinel, Sam Houston, Redskin, and Frank. Recommended plums include the Bruce and Methley.

If you are considering pears you have a choice of three varieites: the Orient, Moonglow, and Keiffer. These have good fire blight resistance and this is critical. If you plant a Keiffer that is not self-pollinating and you will need another pear of a different variety for polination.

For persimmon lovers, , the Tane Nashi, Eureka, or Hachiya, produce excellent fruit and are a beautiful ornament as well.

For Picture Wall, Try Natural Wood

The desirability of a gallery wall increases in many homes as the collection of art work and family photographs grows.

Such a wall should be a neutral, but warm color, and textured but patternless. A favorite choice of decorators is flush-joint, 1x4-inch western wood paneling.

Picture arranging is quite flexible, as hangers set into the tight joints between boards can be removed and relocated, leaving only barely discernible marks.

Agricultural Labor, Wages Rise In Texas

AUSTIN–The agricultural labor force on Texas farms and ranches increased one percent and wages increased ten cents per hour from one year ago, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White reported.

The labor force numbered 301,000 during the survey week of July 6-12, according to statistics released recently.

Farm and ranch operators and unpaid family workers totalled 194,000, down three percent from July 1974, while the hired working force increased to 107,000, nine percent more than last year.

Field and livestock workers, which were estimated separately for the first time in this year's report, accounted for 68,000, 64 percent of the hired working force in the state.

Wages paid all hired farm or ranch workers in Texas during the survey week of July 6-12 averaged $2.08 per hour, 21 cents below the national average of $2.29 for all hired workers.

Texas agricultural workers paid cash wages only (no benefits other than cash wages) averaged $2.12 per hour, eight cents above the same period a year earlier.

Certified Seed Book Published

AUSTIN--Seed growers who applied for inspection under the seed certification program are listed in the "1974 Certified Seed Directory."

"The majority of these growers have had several years of experience in the production of seed under the certification program" said Commissioner White.

Growers of grain, feed grains, cotton, soybeans, peanuts, rice, okra, watermelons and grasses are listed.

For a free copy write to Commissioner John C. White, Texas Department of Agriculture, P.O. Box 12847, Austin, Tex. 78711.

Changes Told In Burning Rules

Agricultural producers, landowners, city officials, and others directing outdoor burning operations must soon comply with new regulations set forth by the Texas Air Control Board.

The new outdoor burning regulations which became effective Dec. 5 outline conditions under whch burning can be acceptably practiced, points out Dr. John Sweeten, agricultural engineeer in waste management for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Agricultural producers who in the past have burned crop residues and rangeland to enhance production will be particularly affected by the new regulations," says the Texas A&M University System engineer.

"Outdoor burning in these instances will be allowed when no practical alternative exists However, certain conditions must be met. The wind must be in a direction that will carry smoke away from urban areas, and wind speed must be between 6 and 23 miles per hour. Furthermore, open burning must take place at least 300 feet from residential, commercial, or industrial area. To allow maximum dispersions, burning should only be conducted between 9 am. and 5 p.m. insofar as is 'reasonably practical."

The new regulations make special reference to the burning of salt marsh grass along the Texas Gulf Coast. Such burning requires prior notification of the nearest regional office of the Texas Air Control Board.

"Several other key items in the new regulation deal with burning of municipal solid waste," notes Sweeten. "The population ceiling on cities and towns that can use outdoor burning to dispose of garbage and trash has been lowered to 3,000 people. And municipal solid waste disposal sites that are burned must be located at least 900 yards from a public road and one mile from a residential or commercial area. Limits are also placed on the hours during which municipal solid waste may be burned."

The new regulations also authorize outdoor burning to dispose of diseased animals to prevent disease transmission. And garbage and trash can also be burned at private residences when regular collection service is not provided.

"These regulations are designed to help solve most of the problems associated with outdoor burning while at the same time not imposing economic hardships on landowners," says the agricultural engineer. "In effect, they require both the landowner and Texas Air Control Board staff to make sure that atmospheric conditions for outdoor burning are suitable for pollutant dispersal."

Sweeten encourages anyone interested in studying a copy of the new outdoor burning regulations to contact his local county Extension office.

Traps Placed For Boll Weevils

If you see bright yellow paper mache flower pots on fence posts in Williamson and Milam Counties, these are boll weevil pheromone traps.

These traps will be placed in varous locations in both counties to monitor boll weevils moving from their overwintering habitat to feeding sites. The traps will be baited with a peromone which attracts the boll weevils. Weevil traps will be placed in fields in mid-January.

GREENBUGS

Greenbugs have continued to be a problem to several small grain producers in Williamson and Milam Counties. Prior to the Christmas rain, greenbu g populations were on the increase. Greenbug numbers ranged from 25 to 300 bugs per foot.

The higher level of infestation (300/foot) coupled with the drought condition was considered a need for control.

Dimethoate, Malathion, Methy l Parathion, and Parathion may be used for greenbug control. Dimethoate is cleared for use in wheat only.

There is a 15 day waiting period before grazing may be resumed when using Methyl Parathion, Parathion, and Dimethoate. The waiting period for Malathion is 7 days. More specific information may be obtained at the County Extension Office.

MANAGEMENT PROGRAM

Community meetings concerning the Pest Management Program are tentatively set for January 13 through 16 for Williamson County and January 26 through 30 for Milam County.

Applications for the 1976 Pest Management Program will be taken at this time. Specific dates, times, and places for these meetings will be provided in early January.

SAFETY CORNER

Work surfaces for farmers vary from wood, concrete, and steel to mud and ice. Falls account for about 1/3 of all farm accidents. Work shoes with slip-resistant soles and heels can prevent many falls. Soft materials on shoe soles, materials such as vinyl plastics and white, non-hardened rubber, offer more traction on hard surfaces. A grooved sole tread is effective on wet and greasy surfaces.

Drought Across Texas Hastens Range Decline

AUSTIN–Texas ranchers who graze their cattle on winter grasses are hoping the new year will bring rain.

Although grazing conditions are still holding up well, the drought across the state continues to worsen, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White said.

Decline in livestock condition has been noted only in East Texas, where grazing has been especially short.

In most areas of the state, however, livestock condition is normal for this time of the year.

Wheat and oats are furnishing limited grazing, but rain is needed to maintain even the rather low stocking rates.

Ranchers in some parts of the state have been feeding since early November. Feeding is expected to increase if adequate rainfall does not come soon.

Most summer forages have been killed by frost and freezes. In many parts of Texas, dry pastureland is causing a fire hazard.

Texas Citrus Featured in Cook Book

AUSTIN--A cook book featuring recipes for salads, main dishes, desserts and preserves developed especially for Texas citrus will be available for the winter season, Agriculture Commissioner John C. White has announced.

The Texas Citrus Cook Book, by Mrs. Lavinia Bright, also will include tips on measuring, the correct method of sectioning citrus, techniques of freezing and histories of citrus and the Mission Citrus Fiesta.

Mrs. Bright stresses the importance of using Texas citrus in the recipes.

The cook book is the result of three years of testing and research.

LARRY MAHAN: WORLD'S CHAMPION ALL-AROUND COWBOY

Conlee's Top Hand was the Number One Yielder in nine Texas official experimental stations.

A free sack of Conlee's TOP HAND grain sorghum seed. And a good Buck Knife to open it with. That's my offer.

Larry Mahan

Here's a real winner. . .a free sack of Top Hand with every ten you buy. . and, a famous Buck Muskrat Knife for early bookings.

That's my offer. I'm Larry Mahan. I've misjudged a lot of broncs in my time, but there's one thing I'm sure of. . . .

When it comes to making you a bundle of profit, Conlee's Top Hand grain sorghum is "a cut above the rest".

Top Hand is a yellow endosperm, medium to early maturing hybrid. It's disease and drouth tolerant, and it comes on strong with irrigation.

Top Hand produces big, high quality heads that dry fast, thresh clean. And, it really stays with the Texas weather 'cause it has an extra large root system that's stout as a bull.

Plant Top Hand this season. Convince yourself it'll out perform all the rest. See your seed dealer about my offer right away. A free sack of Conlee Top Hand . . . and a $13.00 Buck Muskrat Knife any man would be proud to carry.

See your dealer or call Conlee Seed, Texas Toll Free 800-792-2215

HERE IS WHAT SOME TOP CENTRAL TEXAS MILO GROWERS SAY:

IRA BELL, JR.—BASTROP
I planted Top Hand row and broadcast for the 1975 crop year. Row yielded 4000 lbs. and broadcast 3500 lbs. I've planted Top Hand for 6 years and will plant all of my acreage in it again for 1976.
The combiners say it thrashed real good and cleaned out mighty good. I would recommend it.

E.C. BOECKER—BUCKHOLTS
Top Hand yields as well or better than any other hybrid I've planted and it is consistant year in and year out.

FRED RICHTER—THRALL
I like Top Hand because it is consistant. It's about the highest yielding hybrid we have found for year after year production.
In 1975 we got a good stand the first time we planted, and several of my neighbors had to replant their competitive hybrids.
IN A WORD—IT'S DEPENDABLE.

MARVIN LENZ—TAYLOR
I plant Top Hand because year in and year out it has been one of the highest producing hybrids I have found. I like the short, sturdy stalks, and excellent root system.
After all—a top yield is great but it has to be in the elevator before you can cash it in.

Select Paneling To Please Eye

Most satisfactory way to select cedar lumber to panel an accent wall is to do so personally at the lumber yard.

Choices vary widely, between clear and tight-knot grades, smooth surfaced and saw-textured, flush joint and patterned.

Bevel and channel rustic styles are widely used for interiors.

Maps Designed For Blind Students

A lightweight, portable plastic map--with buildings raised and streets depressed--will help blind or partially sighted students get around better on The University of Texas campus.

The tactual map (measuring 11 x 11 1/2 inches) was designed as a master's thesis by Margaret Day, a graduate cartogrophy student in the Geography Department.

With map in hand, the blind will be able to maneuver more easily around UT's malls, steps, fountains, and ledges.

Undefeated In District

Yoe Pops Chaps, 61-51

A zone defense and at time a triple team on Ronnie Bennett wasn't enough for the Austin Westlake Chapparals Tuesday night as the Yoemen remain undefeated in district and whopped the Chaps 61-51.

The Yoemen tried to work the ball under the basket to Bennett with little luck because of a double team and even a triple team to keep 'Too Tall' from scoring. Even that didn't work so well as Bennett was able to score 20 points.

But even more impressive Bennett didn't leave anything at Austin except his hand prints on the backboards, sweeping down 23 offensive and defensive rebounds.

Kenneth Scott made certain the Chaps didn't have a chance at any of the other rebounds with 8.

Jafus White pumped in 21 points to be the team leader followed by Bennett. Kenneth Scott scored 8 points.

The Yoemen came out on the court and hit a cool 33% from the field the first quarter but were able to gain a 6 point advantage.

By the half time intermission the Yoemen had built a 7 point lead. In the second quarter the Yoemen hit 8 of 16 from the field for 50%.

It was a standstill in the third quarter with both teams scoring 12.

In the fourth quarter it never got closer than 6 points and the Yoemen were able to pull away in the final minutes to hand the Chaparrals their second district loss.

The Yoemen remained in the lead for district 23AA and have a 3-0 district record.

The varsity team was the only one to salvage a win in Austin with the freshmen losing 50-34 and the junior varisty being downed by five, 45-50.

In the freshman game the Yoe cagers came back in the third quarter to take a momentary lead after being down at half time 22-28.

The hot shooting of Edward Johnson was not enough and in the fourth quarter the Chaps gained 9 points on the Yoemen. Johnson scored 16 for the Yoe freshmen.

In the jv battle both teams went to the dressing rooms at half time with 16 and in the third quarter the Yoe JV gained a 7 point lead.

In the fourth quarter the Chaps outscored Yoe by 18 and were able to overtake the Yoemen by 5.

Roderick Kelley led the scoring attack with 14, followed by Erroll Spells with 13. Curtis Wise pumped in 9, followed by Gerry Heitman with 7. Tony Stinnett rounded out the scoring with 2.

Cauley Turns Down Three Offers

Coach Ed Cauley said, "I have decided to stay!" After three other offers, there were doubts that Cauley would stay. He has taken the Yoemen to two quarterfinals and many felt he would accept a position in Cleburne and move up to the 4-A school.

Since Cauley has been head football coach he has accumulated a 34-7-5 record. In 1972 took over the head position and in the 3-A ranks had a 6-2-2 record.

In 1973 again Belton won district with the Yoemen turning in a 6-3-1 record. In 1974 the Yoemen went to their first quarterfinals and had a 10-1-2 record. Then in '75 the Yoemen scored 12 wins and one loss.

The Cleburne post would have been a 4-A athletic directorship and would have included several benefits.

According to Cauley the staff would include three varsity assistants, two junior varsity and three freshmen assistants. Also Cauley would have had an assistant athletic director.

Cleburne is in the same district with Arlington, Bowie, Houston Lamar, Fort Worth Haltom, and Richland.

Clearing the air, Cauley said, "I have had three offers to go to larger schools. But Cleburne was the only one that I seriously considered."

"I just didn't feel like this was the time or the move for my family and myself to make," Cauley said.

About his plans he said, "My plans as of this time are to stay right here among the Fighting Yoemen and hope we can continue to contribute to the school and the community."

In closing Cauley stated "I'm very proud to be a Yoeman and always will be."

As for the other job offers Cauley said that he had a 4-A job offer from Hobbs, New Mexico, a very strong athletic community in eastern New Mexico, and a 3-A job offer.

As for the name of the 3-A school Cauley said it was near by and the position hadn't been filled.

DALLAS. . .

Who would have believed it? There is something to stability. The Dallas franchise is the only NFL team that has had it's same coach, same personnel manager, and same owner.

That is the biggest clue in the overall success of the ball team. Not to take away from their players, but let's face it, they're just too young to rip apart the experienced Rams.

People and fans have often questioned Tom Landry as a top-notch coach but who can argue with his success?

Super Bowl X will be Super Bowl II for the Cowboys.

BOOSTER CLUB. . .

Monday night the Yoemen Booster Club treated the '75 Fighting Yoemen to a barbecue.

There were over 200 supporters on hand at the K.C. Hall to pay tribute to the quarterfinalist Yoemen.

The Booster Club will continue to support the entire athletic program.

YOE FRESHMEN. . .

The Yoe freshmen cagers have a 4-1 record for the '75-76 season. The following are scores of their season: Yoe 39, Holland 45; Yoe 47, Belton 28; Yoe 63, Belton 39; Yoe 48, Caldwell 29; and Yoe 44, Leander 23.

The freshmen have a 2-0 district record and are coached by Paul Hoelscher.

POOLE SAID. . .

"The Yoe record now stands at 8-3 for the year and 2-0 in district, tied for the lead with Elgin, who is also 2-0.

"All other teams in the district have at least one loss.

"I feel that Elgin, Hearne, Rosebud-Lott, and Westlake will be the contenders in the race this year, with all teams being much improved.

"The season is coming about as expected we are still up and down, because of the late start; however, we should begin to smooth out soon.

"Our cool shooting is due mainly to our slow start where most teams have played 20 games we have played 11.

"Our defense has been very erratic ;however, this will improve and we will be hoping to be very much in the district 23AA race.

"We play play a tough Westlake team Tuesday and Rosebud-Lott at home Friday in renovated Yoe gym.

"We have won 16 straight 23 AA games and have not lost a district game since being in 23AA.

"There will be a game involving the 6th grade at the half of the R-L game, and all should enjoy this action.

"The present starters are: Ronnie Bennett, 6'7", post; David Kornegay, 6'3", post; Jafus White, 6'3", guard; Mike White, 6'0", guard; Kenneth Scott, 6'1", guard.

Former Astronaut Gives Testimony

DALLAS

A man who walked on the moon in 1971 decided that he would rather walk with God for the rest of his life.

James B. Irwin was the lunar module pilot for Apollo 15 in the summer of 1971 when he walked on the moon. After his splash-down, Irwin recounted a religious experience which eventually led him to retire from the astronaut program.

Irwin will give his Christian testimony before an estimated 12,000 pastors and laypersons at the annual Texas Baptist Evangelism Conference in Fort Worth, Monday night, Jan. 12.

Since 1972 Irwin has served as president of High Flight, Inc., a non-profit organization which he founded to share his faith in God through speaking engagements, publications, retreats, and training activities.

The conference which opens at Tarrant County Convention Center on Monday evening at 6:30 p.m. runs through Wednesday noon.

Other speakers for the conference include evangelist James Robison, who hosts a weekly syndicated television show: Dr. Jimmy R. Allen, pastor of First Baptist Chruch, San Antonio; Dr. James H. Landes, executive director of the 2.2 million-member Baptist General Convention of Texas, and Richard Jackson, pastor of North Phoenix Baptist Church, Phoenix, Ariz.

The sessions which are scheduled for monring, afternoon, and evening are free to the public.

The evanglism conference is sponsored by the Evangelism Division of the Baptist General Convention of Texas. There are approximately 4,400 Southern Baptist churches in the state.

Goodwill Industries Accredited

A. P. Garrett, executive director of Heart O'Texas Goodwill Industries, Inc., has announced that the facility has received accrediatation from the Commission of Accreditation of Rehabilitation Facilities, (CARF).

Garrett said: "This accreditation is a major acknowledgement of Goodwill's excellence, since the commission's requirements for accreditation are the stiffest --and, its acceptance is considered the most valuable of all types of certification in the rehabiliatation field."

CARF includes American Hospital Association, National Rehabilitation Association, and the National Easter Seal Society among its corporate members. CARF is the result of ten years effort, study, and planning on the part of the Rehabilitation Services Administration.

The facility received personal congratulations from Gov. Dolph Briscoe for this great achievement.

Appalled now and then at the impropriety of your own remarks?

We say things we really don't mean. And occasionally we say what we do mean but really shouldn't say.

No church claims it can train you to say the right thing at the right time — although expressing truth, concern and kindness toward others is very much a part of Christian living.

Our churches teach the Gospel of Christ which has for two thousand years inspired truth, concern and kindness. The heart of that Gospel is God's Love for US and for ALL MEN.

No person can hope always to say the right thing. But, generally, what we express are our convictions. Our church helps us discover and implement them!

Sick Child Needs Special Understanding

Sick children need special care and understanding, Mrs. Ilene Miller, a family life education specialist, says.

"Parents can best help young chidren learn how to cope with unpleasant situations--such as illness-by being honest with him. For example, if the child needs to see a doctor, get a shot or take unpleasant-tasting medicine, prepare him for what will happen," she adivsed.

Mrs. Miller is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, the Texas A&M University System.

She advised parents to explain that it probably will hurt when the doctor or nurse gives him the shot and that it's all right to cry if he feels like crying.

"You can also give the child some control over an unpleasant situation. Ask if he would rather stand up or lie down for his shot or if he would rather have theshot in his right or left arm. Would he rather have juice or water after he takes his medicine?

"Don't try to embarrass your child into taking medicine or being brave if he has to see the doctor. Teasing him and making him feel like a baby because he resists, doesn't elt the sitattion and disregards the child's feelings," she pointed out.

Parents can be firm, yet accepting, of the child'd dislike for shots, medicine, or staying in bed.

"For example, when giving the child eardrops, eyedrops, suppositories or medicine by mouth, tell him the medicine willhelp him get well. Let him know you are sorry he has to take medicine and you know he doesn't like to stay in bed, but these are things that will help him feel better.

"Young children may feel guilty and worry about their illness. It's hard for them to understand why they feel so badly. The illness may seem like punishment for something they have done. If your child asks questions, answer as truthfully as you can and reassure him that he hasn't done anythingwrong," she said.

She reminded that sick children often have shorter attention spans and tire easily. Toys and activities will help keep the child entertained during his illness. Provide a variety of activities--puzzles, books, puppets, and other toys to play with in bed.

"Avoid messy materials which require extensive clean up that would tire the child. A new toy might interest a sick youngster. Consider surprising your child with a bright mobile, a new book or a record," she suggested.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Form 1040 US Individual Income ... For the year January 1-December ... 1975, or other taxable year beginning ... Last name

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I bought several tickets to a concert performed for the benefit of a charity. Are the cost of these tickets deductible as a charitable contribution?

A. The payments for admission or participation in any benefit performance, banquet, charity ball, etc., for a qualified organization are deductible only to the extent they exceed the fair market value of the performance or other privilege.

For example, if the concert would normally cost $10, but the benefit cost $20, you may claim the extra $10 as a charitable contribution. If you claim the deduction, you must show that the payment is above the fair market value. Whether you use the tickets or not has no bearing on the amount you may deduct.

Q. Is the tax on my utility bill tax deductible?

A. Generally, utility taxes are not deductible unless they are imposed at the same rate as the general sales tax, and are considered part of the general sales tax.

Q. I was married last month, but I am continuing to use my maiden name at my job and for other business purposes. Can I use my maiden name and still file a joint return with my husband?

A. Yes, but there are complications. When the joint return is processed, the IRS will file it under the primary surname and social security number, which in this case is your husband's. There will be no record of a tax return filed under your maiden name.

Consequently, every year that you file jointly using your maiden name, you may receive a delinquency notice from the IRS.

Until the system is changed, the only way to resolve this is to follow the instructions on the delinquency notice and state that you filed a joint return with your husband, listing his name, Social Security number and your name.

Q. I recently made a profit from the sale of some stock I owned. I didn't withdraw the profit from my account, but used it to cover some earlier losses. Will I have to pay tax on the profit?

A. Yes. Profits are taxable as income in the year received, whether or not you withdraw them from the account. The fact that you used them to offset losses does not eliminate your tax liability.
